These constitutions and laws must be advanced from time to time to meet the conditions which the development of the country creates. Therefore, when we are considering with what political party we shall associate, we must look beyond the personal wrong which a convertion may inflict those a candidate. vention may inflict upon a candidate and the indignation which may arise from its unfair or dishonest procedure to this vital and more fundamental contestion with the contestion of the contest question, viz. Through what political party are we most likely to secure the constitutions and laws which we must ultimately have if we are to main-tain justice among the people?

Fighting for Progressives. "During all the time I have been in public life I have been fighting to make the Republican party the progressive party of the country. During all that have not hesitated to denounce party policies when I believed them to be, wrong, nor to criticise party leaders for their failure to keep the party abreast of the age. Nevertheless, I have believed during all that time that there was more hope for substantial progress toward good government in the Republican party than any other existing political organization, or in any one that might be brought into the political field. I am still of that belief. I have been now and then sorely disappointed and specializes. isappointed and sometimes much discouraged, but I have tried to recognize that in any party there will always be a front rank and a rear rank. will insist upon going too fast and some will scarcely move at all, and, there-fore, the march will not be as rapid or as constant as it ought to be. In taking account of the achievements of the past few years, it must not be forgotten that the influence of the essives in the Republican party has complished results of the most gratiand comprehensive character. When I compare the position of the renectionaries of ten years ago and their positions now, I am conscious, and it is a reassuring reflection, that although we have traveled slowly, we have traveled far.

Energies Not Concentrated. "We met defeat at Chicago simply because we had not concentrated our energies upon the abolition of a false and unjust basis of representation: but the LODGE AND CRANE overthrown, and another system for the nomination of Presidential candidates will be substituted before another Presidential nomination is made. The only thing that has happened since the progressive Republicans made their camfor President in the Chicago convention is our failure to control the convention due, as many believe, to unfair or dishonest practices by our opponents. I deeply regret the failure, and I agree that dishonest practices, without regard to consequences, ought to be rebuked and punished, but I cannot believe that the disappointment, however profound.

President Taft is very much pleased with the manner in which Mr. Barnes handled the situation at Chicago, and also on acco of the way in which he held the New York delegation in line, although they were uninstructed. Several of the Presi-dent's friends have recommended Barnes o him as chairman. They say that the New Yorker is one of the cleverest politicians of the country. > NATIONAL PROGRESSIVE PARTY ORGANIZED

BY MICHIGANDERS

Lansing, Mich., July 5 .- "The National rogressive party" was organized here this afternoon at a meeting of Republican progressive leaders representing nearly every county in the State. A State convention was called to meet at Jackson on July 20 to complete the organization and nominate a State ticket. The meeting developed a big row, in which Gov. Chase E. Osborn, who called the meeting, was badly worsted. He was taken to task for deserting the Roosevelt lovement and declaring for Wilson. He stefended his course vigorously, and absolutely declined to enter a third party if it was to nominate Roosevelt electors.

All accounts of the affair are confused thus far. It is believed that the wanton use of firearms, to the extent of causing such casualities, by the Panaman police, was wholly unwarranted.

I Investigation of the affair is being made at Panama by H. Percival Dodge, American Minister, and also by the commanding officers of the Tenth Infantry, and the marine battallon, stationed on the Canal Zone. Orders were sent from Washington yesterday for the forwarding to this city of the results of such investigations just as soon as they are completed.

The authorities here are convinced that there was no necessity for the slaughter of the Americans by the Panaman police.
